CHAMBERS UK, 2022
CHANCERY

Practice Overview

Leslie has been awarded 'Chancery Silk of the Year' at the Chambers Bar Awards 2019, a prestigious award recognising Leslie's pre-eminence in his key practice areas. Leslie is one of the Western Circuit's leading commercial and chancery silks, both in advisory work and in litigation in all Courts from the most local up to and including the House of Lords and the Supreme Court.

Leslie deals with commercial disputes and problems, and in particular those with a real property element including contracts for the sale of land, development and overage agreements, commercial landlord and tenant disputes and Town and Village Green applications. Leslie also acts in probate disputes, Inheritance Act claims and trust litigation. He has appeared for and against local authorities in planning disputes and in associated high-profile Judicial Reviews of administrative actions.

He is regularly instructed by Registration Authorities to sit as an inspector on Village Green inquiries.

Leslie has been ranked in the 'Chambers 100 UK Bar', ranking the top 100 silks practising at the Bar of England and Wales. He has achieved this recognition by being ranked in Bands 1 and 2 of his specialist areas of practice in The Chambers UK Bar Guide. He has recently been identified as the only KC ranked as a leading professional adviser to the Private Wealth market (outside London), where he is featured in the High Net Worth Guide 2021.

Leslie was also shortlisted for 'Silk of the Year' within the Legal 500 UK Regional/Scottish Awards 2018. He has been named Barrister of the Year 2015/2016 by The Bristol Law Society. He is described by his peers as 'a brilliant advocate and an exceptionally clever man. He is easy to get along with, supportive and practical.'

He is also recommended in Who's Who UK Bar: Real Estate 2022 for his impressive work on a range of real estate matters, including lease disputes, enfranchisement and planning.

He was appointed a Recorder (2003) and a Deputy High Court Judge (Chancery) (2008), and is a Deputy Head of St John's Chambers, and a member of the Editorial Board of The Conveyancer and Property Lawyer.

Areas of Expertise

Agriculture & Rural Affairs

Leslie has been awarded 'Chancery Silk of the Year' at the Chambers Bar Awards 2019, a prestigious award recognising Leslie's pre-eminence in his key practice areas. He maintains a formidable reputation in agriculture and rural affairs on the Western Circuit with over thirty years experience advising farmers, farming partnerships and companies in respect of contracts for the sale and purchase of land; rights over and restrictive of land; tenancies (both under the Agricultural Holdings Act 1986 and Agricultural Tenancies Act 1995) and partnership and succession disputes.

He has recently argued the fencing easement case – Haddock v Churston Golf Club in the Court of Appeal; judgment awaited.

He has a special interest in rights of common, together with town and village green law.

Leslie has recently appeared in the Court of Appeal arguing as to the ability of farmers to create fencing easements by agreement in Haddock v Churston Golf Club, for which judgment is awaited.

Leslie has appeared in a number of high profile proprietary estoppel cases, including:

Davies v Davies (2014 and 2016) – the 'Cowshed Cinderella' case, both at trial and on appeal twice. Read more here.

Gee v Gee (2018) – represented the successful claimant at trial. Read more here.

He is also a member of the Agricultural Law Association and is recommended (Band 1) in Chambers UK (2016) for Agriculture. He also sits as a Town and Village Green inspector.

Leslie has acted as a legal advisor to arbitrators appointed under the Agricultural Holdings Act 1986.

Commercial

Leslie is one of the Western Circuit's leading commercial and chancery silks, and works across a whole spectrum of commercial issues including company, partnership, insolvency and banking matters.

Leslie advises and appears in cases concerning all aspects of commercial and contractual disputes including sale of goods and franchising and distribution agreements, relationship agreements in respect of long term supply contracts. He also deals with applications for interlocutory relief in Freezing and Anton Piller form.

He advises and appears in cases concerning all aspects of commercial and contractual disputes including sale of goods and franchising and distribution agreements, relationship agreements in respect of long term supply contracts. He also deals with applications for interlocutory relief in Freezing and Anton Piller form.

Leslie advises and appears in cases concerning internal and corporate disputes, shareholder disputes, minority shareholder protection and contested about windings up. He has advised in respect of numerous partnership disputes including litigation to the existence of partnerships, the times of which partnerships trade their dissolution and taking of partnerships accounts.

He has particular expertise in respect of the agricultural partnerships.

Leslie advises and acts in all aspects of corporate and personal insolvency including applications to restraint the presentation of bankruptcy and winding up petitions and the enforcement of substantial claims in the insolvency process.

Court of Protection

Leslie has been awarded 'Chancery Silk of the Year' at the Chambers Bar Awards 2019, a prestigious award recognising Leslie's pre-eminence in his key practice areas. He is one of the Western Circuit's leading commercial and chancery silks, who also is regularly instructed in a wide variety of Court of Protection matters involving property and affairs cases. He has a particular interest in disputes over the execution of wills and succession, the misconduct of receivers, trustees and all attorneys.

Inquests & Public Inquiries

Leslie has appeared and advised in a number of high profile inquests and enquiries relating to deaths in the UK and abroad. He has been instructed to act on behalf of the parents and brother of the late Barry Pring in the long-running dispute with his widow over the administration of Barry Pring's estate.

Mediation

Leslie qualified as a mediator in January 2016. His background is predominantly commercial disputes and problems, and in particular those with a real property element including contracts for the sale of land, development and overage agreements, commercial landlord and tenant disputes and Town and Village Green applications. Leslie also acts in probate disputes, Inheritance Act claims and trust litigation, but is happy to mediate in any field.

Leslie acts as an independent party in the dispute resolution process to facilitate open discussion and reach consensus between the parties, without the need to go to court with all the added expense and aggravation. Leslie is described by his peers as "a brilliant advocate and an exceptionally clever man. He is easy to get along with, supportive and practical."

Professional Negligence

Leslie has been a member of chambers since 1984, and is now one of the Western Circuit's leading commercial and chancery practitioners, both in advisory work and in litigation in all Courts from the most local up to and including the House of Lords and the Supreme Court. He advises and acts in a number of professional negligence claims in respect of solicitors and barristers, as well as for both claimants and insurers of the professionals, including property conveyancing solicitors (including mortgage lending).

Leslie also advises on professional negligence claims in relation to banking, company and commercial, real estate and wills and trusts matters. He is able to bring his specialist knowledge of property, probate law and litigation.

He advises and acts in respect of claims for and against financial institutions including all aspects of professional negligence arising out of financial institutions in banking disputes generally.

Public & Administrative

Leslie is one of the Western Circuit's leading commercial and chancery practitioners, both in advisory work and in litigation, in all Courts from the most local up to and including the House of Lords and the Supreme Court. He accepts instructions in public and administrative law matters, including planning, environment, licensing and highways & rights of way. He acts for developers, local authorities and third parties in many inquiries.

Leslie is noted for his expertise in judicial reviews concerning property-related decisions, as well as high-profile Judicial Reviews of administrative actions. He has many years' experience of advising and appearing in disputes relating to local government administration and contracts, as well as the challenging of inspectors' decisions reached under the Wildlife and Countryside Act 1981, and the judicial review of decisions of registration authorities under the Commons Act 2006, decisions made by local planning authorities, and decisions of licensing authorities.

Leslie has appeared both for and against local authorities in planning disputes. He advises generally in respect of planning matters in strategic planning decisions, and appears at Inquiries relating to planning matters in respect of compensation for compulsory purchase.

He advises in highway disputes relating to both private and public highways, their existence and rights and obligations in respect of them. Leslie also appears at Inquiries into the existence of public highways and litigation in respect of highways, as well as lecturing on this topic.

Leslie offers a particular expertise in challenging local authorities over licensing fees, having advised and appeared (with Professor Roy Light of St John's Chambers) in the successful challenge to the setting of hackney carriage license fees in Cummings v Cardiff City Council where it was held that a local authority could not cross subsidise expenditure between the private hire and hackney carriage regimes, and carry forward surpluses or deficits from year to year, recovering significant sums for the applicants.

Leslie is also an expert in town and village green law, and as well as advising, both appears before Inquiries, sits as an informal inspector advising registration authorities on applications to register land as a village green. He has also appeared on judicial review applications to challenge registrations decisions on highly contentious applications, notably in SDR v Bristol City Council and Mann v Somerset County Council.
